New web site helps parents digitally save child's childhood with pictures and text.

PR9.NET March 09, 2007 - New York, New York – After months of development, DaddyIWantaWebsite.com, a new web development business that allows parents to set up a site for their child to remember all their good times, has just launched. The web site has various development plans and will help parents get a web site about their child up and running quickly.

There are three plans available, the Starter Package, Pro Package, and the Premium Package. All plans include a domain name, hosting for one year, web site design, a counter and a guestbook, security features, e-mail accounts, "Contact Me" pages, and more. The Pro Package also has an extra year of hosting, more e-mail accounts and subdomains, a newsletter feature, more designs, search engine submission and more. Finally, the Premium Package includes all features listed plus a full photo album, a custom logo, a web forum, flash designs and more.

"We are an experienced group of web specialists, newly established company for E-business and web solutions. With website design, content management, Ecommerce Business Solutions and Search Engine Optimization services, we came up with DaddyIWantaWebsite.com idea to create something unique, new and creative allowing parents to give something that last long to their children," said webmaster First Last.

DaddyIWantaWebsite.com is an affordable way to create a digital way to save a childhood with plans starting at under $500.

"What an amazing idea...Creating a gift that is totally different and can make a change! Thank you guys," says user M. Reyna.
