Ahlmedia announces that they have transferred from previous location of 15 years to a new facility in order to better serve its clientele. Move offers better accessibility to Fort Wayne clients while expanding capacity to meet national multimedia service needs, such as CD and DVD duplication / replication, video production, and web streaming videos.

PR9.NET April 02, 2007 - Fort Wayne, IN - Ahlmedia, based in Fort Wayne, Indiana, is announcing that the national media service provider's headquarters have moved. After spending 15 years at its previous location, Ahlmedia's corporate headquarters are now located a short distance away at 1411 N. Coliseum Blvd., Fort Wayne, IN, 46805.

This move was made in order to better serve Ahlmedia's Fort Wayne clientele, while expanding services provided to its national clientele, such as CD and DVD duplication / replication, video production, and web streaming videos. Ahlmedia's management and staff are excited about the new opportunities for growth that the move brings with it.

"This move is exactly what this company needs to expand our service offerings and keep up with our clientele's needs," commented Tim Spooner, VP of Sales and Marketing at Ahlmedia.

The move signals Ahlmedia's confidence that its recent growth as a company is only the beginning.

When asked about the company's short-term goals, Mike Palmer, President and CEO of Ahlmedia replied, "We are dedicated to seeing our quality of service continue to improve, while maintaining our competitive prices."

With services ranging from CD and DVD reproduction, to creating web streaming video files and producing marketing and training videos, Ahlmedia is a leader in the media and video service industries.

Ahlmedia's clientele include video production houses, universities, corporations, non-profit organizations, music groups, as well as private individuals.

In an industry continually shifting with technological changes, Ahlmedia remains flexible and poised to handle its clients' new multimedia needs such as HD DVD while continuing to handle transitional needs such as VHS and film to DVD transfer.

The company is also excited about more opportunities to offer marketing and training video production services in and around the Fort Wayne area.
