Now men and women with hair loss needs can better navigate their way to a hair replacement system with Hair Direct's newly redesigned website.

PR9.NET May 30, 2007 - Bainbridge, PA – Now men and women with hair loss needs can better navigate their way to a hair replacement system with Hair Direct's newly redesigned website. Hair Direct, a mail order hair replacement company, has upgraded their company website, www.hairdirect.com, to enable clients to find what they need more quickly.

The site, broken down by categories, offers users the opportunity to learn about hair replacement systems, see the variety of types of hair offered by the company, purchase products and hair, view client testimonial videos and join an open discussion forum with other hair wearers. Visitors to the website can easily identify which category is relevant for them and access it directly from the home page.

By utilizing Hair Direct's website, hair wearers can obtain affordable, high quality hair replacement systems from the comfort of their own home.
