CEO of America's first online commercial printing company honored as outstanding entrepreneur

PR9.NET June 01, 2007 - Livingston, MT – PrintingForLess.com, www.printingforless.com, today announced that their CEO, Andrew Field, is a finalist for the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur Of The Year® 2007 Award in the Pacific Northwest Region. According to Ernst & Young, the awards program was designed to recognize outstanding entrepreneurs on a regional, national and global level who are building and leading dynamic, growing businesses.

Field was selected as a finalist from 63 nominations by a panel of independent judges. Award recipients will be announced at a special black-tie gala event on June 22 at the Sheraton Seattle Hotel & Towers Grand Ballroom.

"I'm honored to be a finalist for this award, but without our team members providing their exceptional customer service, products and expertise on a daily basis, PrintingForLess.com would not be the high-growth organization it is today," says Field. "As America's print shop, we want to build a great company that contributes to the community and helps other entrepreneurs succeed."

The Ernst & Young Entrepreneur Of The Year awards program celebrates its 21st anniversary this year. Awards are given to entrepreneurs who have demonstrated excellence and extraordinary success in such areas as innovation, financial performance, and personal commitment to their businesses and communities.

Regional award winners are eligible for consideration for the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur Of The Year 2007 national program. Award winners in several national categories, as well as the overall national Ernst & Young Entrepreneur Of The Year award winner, will be announced at the annual awards gala in Palm Springs, California on November 17, 2007. The national Entrepreneur Of The Year celebration is part of Ernst & Young's Strategic Growth Forum. The overall national Entrepreneur Of The Year award recipient is then considered for the world event held in Monte Carlo.
