The team at Voices.com recently started offering webinars to their customers, teaching them how to use the voice actor marketplace and hire voice actors online.

PR9.NET June 06, 2007 - Toronto, Canada – Voices.com, the leading voice actor marketplace, is now providing instruction and helpful tips to people who need to hire voice actors through their didactic and revolutionary webinars lead by Erica Bontje, Client Account Executive and Sales Manager. Each week Erica personally guides registered participants step by step over the phone and through the Internet educating voice actor employers on how to find the perfect voice for their project and streamline the hiring process.

Voices.com uses WebEx.com to organize and facilitate their webinars. The service provides a means for organizations to invite people to signup for a live multimedia presentation including audio over the telephone and a visual component piped through to a participants Internet Browser such as Internet Explorer or Firefox, enabling the callers to view slides prepared by the presenter as well as ask questions in real time through an instant messaging tool, helping them communicate directly with the presenter during the webinar.

As part of the ongoing education of Voices.com customers and those who are new to finding voice actors online, Erica will be conducting the half-hour webinars on a weekly basis scheduled every on Thursday at 2 p.m. EDT.
