

Do It Right Public Relations Announces New $20 Press Release Plan

AMS Press, June 19, 2007

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/business/marketing/5751june.html>

Do It Right Public Relations is shaking up the Public Relations industry by offering high quality public relations work for a fraction of the price of other public relations companies.

PR9.NET June 19, 2007 - Boston, MA – DoltRight Public Relations is proud to announce the launch of its revolutionary $20 press release writing plan. While most companies charge upwards of $500 for similar services, DoltRight PR is determined to bring quality public relations work to all at an affordable price.

DoltRight Public Relations is an innovative company founded by public relations expert Aditya Mahesh, who runs the company with the help of public relations experts from around the globe.

"We believe that public relations services should not be so absurdly priced and should be more affordable for small business owners and individual websites," said co-founder and one of DoltRight PR's public relations experts Abhishek Sontakke. "We all have experience in dealing with the needs of small business owners and thus target those who are looking for the benefits from public relations services, without breaking the bank and spending most of their marketing budget."

Aside from the $20 press release writing services, DoltRightPr.com also offers professional press release submission, business copywriting for on the site or promotional materials, as well as low cost consulting services on setting up a web page for an online or offline business.

"I'm thoroughly impressed with the press release. It was very well written and they took the time to research my site and nailed some observations that would otherwise have been lost," said Wade W., founder of DriverEducationOnline.us.

You can visit DoltRight Public Relations and get additional information on the company and its services at <http://www.DoltRightPr.com>.

###

About DoltRight Public Relations

DoltRight Public Relations is a top notch press release company offering $20 press releases on par with the quality of those who charge $500 or more for the exact same service.

About AMS Press

Top Notch Press Release Company

PR9.NET - Your Free Press Release Service