LegalView.com, your resource on the Web for everything legal, is pleased to continue updating coverage of car and truck accidents for its comprehensive auto accident portal site.

PR9.NET June 20, 2007 - DENVER, CO - LegalView.com, your resource on the Web for everything legal, is pleased to continue updating coverage of car and truck accidents for its comprehensive auto accident portal site, crash.legalview.com. LegalView launched the portal in late 2006, seeking to build a comprehensive and completely free collection of legal information on auto accidents, the top killer of otherwise healthy Americans. With the summer vacation season upon us, LegalView.com urges concerned drivers to visit crash.legalview.com so they can understand and protect their rights in the event of an accident.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's (NHTSA) preliminary report for 2006 shows that while overall traffic deaths decreased slightly compared to 2005, certain categories of risk are rising. For example, motorcyclists have seen a 125 percent increase in fatalities since 1997. The NHTSA also projects that their 2006 numbers will show the highest level of alcohol-related traffic deaths in the United States since 1992. With these sobering facts in mind, LegalView.com has prepared an extensive library of original articles, news feeds, videos, encyclopedia entries and other legal resources. Visitors can find help with accident-related issues including cell phone use, drunk driving, pedestrian and bicycle accidents, defective auto parts, SUV rollovers, and insurance claims.

This auto accident attorney portal is just one of LegalView.com's many comprehensive and frequently updated collections of information on legal issues that affect Americans every day. Those who are looking into an unsafe drug lawsuit, seeking a traumatic brain injury lawyer, need information on filing a medical malpractice claim, or require advice on the Composix hernia patch recall can browse LegalView's extensive collection of information on those topics and many more. LegalView offers original content and cutting-edge blogs as well as up-to-the-minute feeds of relevant news articles, government information and a glossary of legal terms. For visitors in need of an experienced, competent local attorney, LegalView.com offers a free nationwide attorney referral service to its visitors. And our associated attorneys always offer free case evaluations to potential clients.
