New position to add more content for over 10,000 customers world-wide

PR9.NET June 22, 2007 - Phoenix, AZ – Guide Bazaar (www.guidebazaar.com) a provider of electronically distributed virtual guides for multiplayer games announces that it has hired Angelo D'Argenio to their Senior Staff Writer position.

This new position coincides with a statement released earlier this week announcing GuideBazaar's plans to add game related articles, interviews and other interactive content for its more than 10,000 customer base.

Angelo will develop and manage all aspects of a new program to bring GuideBazaar's customers a full line of articles, industry news, web site enhancements and customer outreach programs.

"We are excited to have Mr. D'Argenio join our team of professionals," said Beth Johnson, Director of Marketing & Media of GuideBazaar.com. "As the first Senior Staff Writer in our 3 year history, Angelo brings rich experience in helping similar sized companies expand their presence in the market through the establishment of a professionally designed and executed marketing program."

Mr. D'Argenio has over 5 years of business experience. He has been a featured writer at Bonafidereviews.com, Uziana.com, and Gamersmark.com, and has been a regular contributor to GamesTM and PSM3 magazine. He also leads the game news and speculation group Disorganization 13, and publishes an independent gaming newsletter "The Voice".

GuideBazaar plans to devote an entire new area to its already expansive site, this new section includes articles, interviews and an all new "Ask the Writer" section where customers will be able to submit topics and questions.
