Concept Laboratory offers various modifications to the osCommerce program that make it easier for webmasters to control and maintain their online businesses.

PR9.NET June 24, 2007 - New York, NY - Concept Laboratory is proud to announce that it has brought together expert programmers from around the world to develop unique ways to cut down on the time for maintaining online shopping web sites utilizing osCommerce. Their modules were described, as one observer put it, as, "The premier modifications to osCommerce for webmasters to save time in maintaining their online stores."

osCommerce is the leading program to use for online shops because it is a free open source PHP/MySQL based shopping cart. Concept Laboratory has witnessed owners of online web shops struggling with the time required to maintain their osCommerce based websites, leading to a number of hours being wasted. With the number of people using osCommerce, Concept Laboratory feels that is necessary to find time saving modifications for the osCommerce platform.

Concept Laboratory has now begun to develop and offer downloadable modules for the masses to enhance the osCommerce shopping cart thus making it easier for their owners to run and optimize.

One product that has already been released by Concept Laboratory is labeled the Quick Updater, which has received raving reviews because it has saved osCommerce webshop owners a huge amount of time in maintaining their websites. Concept Laboratory will be releasing new add-on solutions to osCommerce on a regular basis for site owners to experience.

The owner and lead developer, Ryan Weaver, described these revolutionary new modules as, "osCommerce is certainly one of the best shopping cart platforms on the market. However even the best can benefit from a third parties input. That is where we try to step in and help the community by offering unique modules that can really benefit any osCommerce webmaster."

All the details to the scripts offered by Concept Laboratory are available at <http://www.ConceptLaboratory.com>.
