Royalty Free Music provider Beatsuite.com releases collection of music created with business in mind

PR9.NET June 28, 2007 - United Kingdom, Royalty free music provider Beatsuite.com has just released a new collection of music tracks created especially for business and corporate sectors. The 'Business and Corporate' release delivers a fantastic choice of music for companies who want their marketing and media projects to have maximum impact by appealing to both consumer and B2B markets.

The 'Business and Corporate' collection delivers an original and creative range of music. From bold, trustworthy strings to more contemporary beats and rhythms this collection has a feel of sophistication, global business, commerce and technology vibes.

The music tracks in the collection are ideal for any kind of business communications such as promotional videos, films, TV and radio advertising, business presentations, Podcasting, in-store music, music on hold and more.

Steve Bainbridge, MD adds "This collection was compiled after many of our clients told us of the need to access high quality music for their business activities. Marketing is such an important part of even the smallest business nowadays. Using music as part of that is an increasing trend. Many companies now produce videos, Podcasts, and websites alongside more traditional forms of marketing such as product launches and business exhibitions. This collection simply gives those businesses easy access to suitable music for their marketing needs. Our simple music licensing makes it easy and painless, Clients simply browse the library and then instantly license the music using our Preview, Purchase, Download system. We even added Paypal for convenience."

Amongst thousands of other music tracks available from Beatsuite.com, the 'Business and Corporate' collection is available for immediate Preview>Purchase and Download through the websites easy and intuitive interface. Each track can be licensed legally in an instant for use in your business.
