ComputerWorld.com Touts Firewall Pro's Effectiveness

PR9.NET July 10, 2007 - Jersey City, NJ - Comodo, a global leader in Identity and Trust Assurance Management solutions, Firewall Pro was named one of the "Top 15 Free Security Programs" by Computerworld.com. The article, written in light of increasing online security threats, recommends fifteen great software solutions, that are "free, powerful, and easy to use." Firewall Pro was one of two firewalls chosen, among other solutions spanning spyware busters, antivirus software, rootkit killers, and general Internet security tools. The article, written by Preston Gralla, highlighted the fact that Comodo's Firewall Pro continues to outperform other leading firewalls in leak tests, having recently been named #1 in Matousec's leak test of leading firewalls. Firewall Pro is free, and installation is nearly effortless.

"Matousec found that Comodo offered the highest level of antileak protection, one measure of a firewall's effectiveness. Comodo offers true two-way firewall protection, is highly configurable, and (unlike most other firewalls) provides a great view of your system and your Internet connection," said Gralla in the article.

The article debunked the myth that a paid product means a higher-quality product. With these fifteen solutions, all of which have garnered industry praise, consumers don't have to fall prey to price-gouging solutions and pay money for products that simply don't deliver.

"ComputerWorld echoes what we at Comodo have been championing since day one," said Melih Abdulhayoglu, CEO and Chief Security Architect of Comodo. "That the more expensive products available are not always the best. Firewall Pro continues to top the charts."
