Amazing eLearning announces interactive computer-based training for QuickBooks, Windows Vista, Office 2007, Creative Suite & Web design courses in CD-ROM with free online access for flexible learning.

PR9.NET July 10, 2007 - Burlingame, California – Amazing eLearning, the leader in computer computer-based training and eLearning solutions, has just released high quality, affordable interactive training courses on CD-ROM with free online access. New courses include QuickBooks pro 2007, Windows Vista, Office 2007, Adobe Creative Suite and Web Design.

Using new and unique innovative "blended" learning capabilities, these courses provide users with up-to-date content and 24/7 access to professional training. Flexible training like this supports self-paced learning and allows user to enjoy the best of both CD-ROM and online worlds.

Amazing eLearning courses include interactive features, multimedia presentations with text, professional narration and audible mouse clicks to enhance the experience and make learning easy and fun.

Dante Chu, President of Amazing eLearning, says "Our company has continued to lead the market with blended learning capabilities. This solution will benefit many users who want the best of both world – offline and online learning."

Amazing eLearning is also pleased to announce a new, long term partnership with NowVision Marketing & Distribution, a US based marketing and distribution company specializing in the promotion of emerging software and media products through retail channels.

NowVision Marketing & Distribution is now the exclusive worldwide distribution provider for the Amazing eLearning product line and will drive the expansion of the Amazing eLearning distribution network through marketing and promotion efforts to resellers, distributors and large retail chains.

Michael Yenigues, President of NowVision Inc., says "The Amazing eLearning method clearly sets the product apart from other tutorial software. The interactive nature of the software provides a more flexible and effective method of learning over video tutorials and the compatibility with both PC and Mac operating systems increases the market advantage over the competition." Yenigues continues "Mr. Chu's efforts in developing the Amazing eLearning method are perfectly fitted to satisfy our criteria in evaluating the success potential of emerging software and media products."
