Atlanta's newest business center is prime real estate for business with heavy traffic in a very unusual location.

PR9.NET August 28, 2007 - Atlanta – It is said that location is the most essential factor to consider when choosing real estate for your business, simply because location is what makes the difference between being patronized by customers or not. But no matter where you're located, the location of choice will have to be easily accessible to traffic. So naturally you'll want your business located in the best possible location. But with such a huge area of coverage to canvas, where do you begin to set up shop?

If you seek an unconventional, yet unique location, you'll find it right before your eyes just a few clicks away. As one of the newest addresses to premier this fall in Atlanta's business community, Capital Centre provides a proactive business solution, where businesses can serve their customers directly with an open door policy in a search-free environment with a no-cost-per-click advertising. It is designed to provide a unique level of online marketing and social business networking on one central location where companies are able to conduct business, network, socialize amongst each other, and sell their products and/or services. It's a location where business owners feel like members of an honorary community and not just occupants of a web address.

When it opens, Capital Centre will span sixty-two stories high and provide 584,300 square feet of luxurious Web Suites. Web Suites are a designated web page located within Capital Centre individually designed to display the profile of any company and varies from Entrepreneur, Proprietor, Franchise, Executive, Presidential to Corporate. They are best utilized to build awareness of a company's brand by positioning its service in a more business-oriented location. At 1,055 feet tall Capital Centre is creatively designed to accommodate the business needs of any company seeking to boost their sales and profitability.

Unlike other commercial real estate, Capital Centre is conveniently accessible within minutes from any major Internet super highway. With Phase I under construction and scheduled to open for business this fall, leasing a Web Suite is just one click away. But with worldwide accessibility, Web Suites will go fast. Grimes One Media projects to generate one thousand visitors a month at Capital Centre during the soft opening, which is scheduled for the first three months of operation, and estimates three to four thousand businesses becoming tenants within the first five months upon visiting the leasing office, conveniently located at www.CapitalCentre.net.

For more information on leasing one of the luxurious designed Web Suites, please visit the leasing office to sign up. Prices are from the low $3 to high $30 dollars a month.
