Quitman Independent School District (<http://www.quitmanisd.net>), chose Portland Portals (www.portlandportals.us) to host, design and implement their Metadot Portal Server intranet extranet school district website.

PR9.NET September 05, 2007 - Portland, Oregon, USA - Quitman ISD, located in Quitman, Texas, is made up of high school, middle and elementary school Intranet Extranet websites as well as central administration and information portal pages.

Portland Portals developed initial design mock-ups based on their existing website, including our exclusive Metadot Rotating Content Gizmo, and integrated the Metadot skin to conform to Quitman's content management processes. All existing content was migrated to the new website and pages with edit permissions set up for each teacher in the school district. Training classes were provided to key personnel, allowing them to disseminate information to the teachers within the district.

Portland Portals allows small and medium size organizations to benefit from the collaboration tools used by large corporations and governments without the usual large investment required for similar solutions. Based on the Metadot Portal Server, an open source intranet extranet solution, the Portland Portals Hosted Solution products are perfect for small and medium sized companies wishing to share information across the Internet with several types of groups.

"Quitman has integrated the Metadot system into their content management process allowing better control over content generated from multiple locations" said Scott Hucke, President of Portland Portals. "They now can allow multiple authors to contribute to the content of their website without involving a webmaster all along the way. Each of their schools has their own web page allowing the content management to flow out to where the content is generated, within their schools".
