The new "in association" agreement between Amazon.com & Orbitbuys.com is geared toward the savvy online consumer. This exciting new retail effort will offer shoppers a variety of detail product features and information while receiving enormous discounts on name brand products.

PR9.NET September 14, 2007 - Atlanta, Ga., - Orbitbuys.com announced today that it will be operating in association with Amazon.com. Amazon.com (NASDAQ:AMZN) is the world's leading online shopping retailer, providing award-winning products and services to customers around the globe. Amazon.com competes with other large online shopping retailers such as Yahoo! Shopping (NASDAQ:YHOO), Overstock.com Inc. (NASDAQ:OSTK), and eBay Inc. (NASDAQ:EBAY) and others.

Under the new venture, Orbitbuys.com website will provide web shoppers a new colorful, informative, and easy way to purchase products. The website will offer over several hundred different products and services along with product reviews, a price change notification by email and YouTube product demonstrations.

EcommerceForEveryone.com is an application service provider of Orlando, Florida. Specializing in web development & e-commerce hosting, the company provided the website design and technical support. One of the leaders in e-commerce web development & application hosting, EcommerceForEveryone.com designs and provides ongoing technical support for websites from small e-marketers to large corporations.

Derek Clay, CEO for Orbitbuys.com stated, "We are excited with the new website design as well as how informative and easy it is for customers to purchase products. Also the excellent shipping and customer service that we provide".
