

Flower Delivery Through Social Networking Site

Online flowers uk, September 27, 2007

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/business/services/6422september.html>

The flower delivery industry gets a boost after being included in the list of things that can be sent across by members of Facebook, a popular social networking site apart from messages and pictures.

PR9.NET September 27, 2007 - London - Flower delivery is today a burgeoning industry, which has been consistently projecting an upward trend. The reason behind this can be attributed to the Internet, which has opened new avenues for the industry to grow and blossom.

Now the flower delivery industry has added another feather to its cap. People can now send and receive flowers through the popular social networking site Facebook. This interactive site has an estimated 31 million people as its members, and the numbers are only increasing each day. The kind of business that this figure is capable of generating while exchanging flowers through Facebook will take the flower delivery industry to an all time high.

If you are profiled on Facebook, you now have the golden opportunity of sending flowers to your loved ones with minimum hassles.

For more information on the news that is the subject of this press release (or for a copy, demo, or sample) contact Webmaster or visit www.online-flowers-uk.co.uk

Source of the news: www.safnow.org

Written for: <http://www.online-flowers-uk.co.uk/>

###

About Online flowers uk

Online Flowers UK can deliver online fresh flowers, champagne, chocolates and teddies in the UK. Online flower delivery, champagne delivery, chocolate gifts in London.

Phone:	016-916-24 -555
Website:	http://www.online-flowers-uk.co.uk/
E-Mail:	bethany.isabell@gmail.com
Address:	Online Flowers UK, Bramble Ridge Estate, Ellesmere, SY12 9ES