PR9.NET October 10, 2007 - CHAPEL HILL, N.C. - Led by Lorenzo Muti, artistic director and conductor, The Chamber Orchestra of the Triangle will kick off its 25th season Sunday, October 14. The 3 p.m. performance will take place at The Carolina Theatre in Durham.

The opening concert will feature performances of Luigi Cherubini's Concert Overture, Franz Schubert's Symphony no. 3 in D major and Ludwig van Beethoven's Symphony no. 3, "Eroica."

"The excitement surrounding the upcoming season is energizing," says Muti, a 20-year veteran of the orchestra. "Patrons have expressed their anticipation for a great 25th season."

Emphasizing the orchestra's commitment to emerging musicians, special guest artists performing this year include pianist Louis Schwizgebel-Wang, flutist Mimi Stillman and clarinetist Alexander Fiterstein.

In addition to the October 14 concert, the 2007-2008 season will include performances on November 11, January 20, March 16 and May 18.

For ticket information, visit the Carolina Theatre box office at 309 West Morgan Street, Durham, N.C. 27701 or call (919) 560-3030.
