BagButton Making Huge Strides in Space Saving Market

Washington –Nearly three and a half million savvy consumers worldwide are saving more than space with the revolutionary BagButton – they're also saving money. In 2008, the Washington-based creator of BagButton was featured prominently in some of Australia's top magazines. On the Road, Which Caravan and Camping Magazine recognized the genius behind the simple space saving product.

Popular television reporters on Australia's hit show Extra extolled the virtues of the storage wonder product that can turn an ordinary garbage bag into a secure, air-tight space-saving container simply by attaching a vacuum hose and sucking the air right out of the bag. Extra went to storage specialists at IKEA and were treated to first-hand demonstrations of how the BagButton can work with any size bag in just minutes.
