PR9.NET October 15, 2007 - WAKE FOREST, N.C. - TheClassicalStation.org releases notice that on Thursday, October 18, it will announce future plans for its weekly program, WCPE Opera House, during the broadcast.

WCPE Opera House has been a regular feature of TheClassicalStation.org since April 1980. Each Thursday evening at 7:00 p.m. ET, host Al Ruocchio presented the best in operatic recordings. Ruocchio never failed to deliver his unique insights into the world of opera. He passed away on February 8, 2007, and in his honor, WCPE continues to air his previously recorded Opera House presentations.

"I am pleased with the future plans for Opera House," says General Manager Deborah S. Proctor. "I know Al would be proud and enthusiastic about what is to come."

During New York's opera season, WCPE presents live broadcasts Saturday afternoons from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

WCPE's 24/7 live broadcast of Great Classical Music can be accessed around the globe in several ways; on-line streaming in multiple formats, including IPv6, local cable television systems and traditional radio broadcasting. A complete list of the ways WCPE is available can be found at TheClassicalStation.Org/internet.shtml.
