FEECO will be exhibiting at the 2007 IDGC – International Distillers Grain Conference this weekend.

PR9.NET October 19, 2007 - Green Bay, WI - FEECO International, a world leading manufacturer of coolers – including ethanol coolers, dryers and systems will showcase at the 2007 International Distillers Grain Conference (IDGC) in Schaumburg Illinois October 21-23, 2007. The conference will feature an exciting lineup of engaging general session speakers and category specific breakout seminars. The IDGC will provide excellent opportunities for buyers and sellers, animal health professionals, producers, researchers and service providers to network and build valuable new relationships in one of the world's fastest growing feed ingredient businesses.

FEECO will demonstrate a model version of their gear driven Ethanol Dryer at the show (Booth #34) which uses a unique double bend design to maximize the air-to-material (DDGS) contact creating more uniform material drying. FEECO also specializes in:

- Ethanol Coolers - Counter-flow cooling is recognized as the most efficient cooling alternative and possesses inherent advantages, which cannot be achieved with other cooling approaches and

- Complete Ethanol Systems - FEECO can package the counter-flow cooler and rotary dryer into a complete system that is more energy efficient and versatile than competing systems.
