Web millionaire, Ewen Chia, has released a new product into the online marketplace which he claims is literally a plug and play system which will make buyers of the product money as they sleep. The web entrepreneur is a recognised face in the online marketing community, having amassed over 300,000 subscribers to his popular email newsletter which gives his loyal followers tips on how they, too, can make money online.

PR9.NET November 22, 2007 - Los Angeles, New York - Date – A new product is set to take the internet by storm, according to marketing expert Ewen Chia. His new product, which he sells through the website www.autoprofitgenerator.net, is already selling in large volumes on the back of the success he has achieved from the system. The product provides a strategy to make money on auto pilot – something which has generated him over $500,000 in sales in a short time frame.

The marketing guru's success wasn't something that came to him overnight. For 5 years he worked on his web empire between the hours of 11-3 while still holding down a regular job. Following his break-away from a 9-5 job, his success has continued to grow exponentially: "making money online is all about developing clear and solid strategy, and then following that through with expert execution. The best ideas are often kept underground and rarely surface until the major players have too much of a presence to be impacted by competition. It's a lot about trial and error, and my customers are benefiting from tens of thousands of dollars that I've invested to perfect my system. I look to take the hard work out of making money online through doing the legwork on behalf of my customers. That way all they have to do is execute my strategy using my proven system for success."

Ewan, also a speaker in the internet marketing field, shot to internet fame after a live seminar in front of an audience of 1,000 avid listeners. During the intensive 3-day event he was able to "brain-storm, start, develop, build and market a business which made over $80,000 during the course of the event". Accounts of this have spread throughout the internet, and are said to be a large factor in the belief people have in his products. Ewan commented: "making eighty thousand dollars in under 72 hours may seem astonishing to a lot of people, however don't be fooled into thinking it's easy. I have worked very hard for the past decade to develop the skills that I'm able to put to use to make money. Many of my customers have achieved financial freedom buying my products and are happy making money on auto-pilot. There success is a by-product of the time I've invested in developing my winning strategies. www.autoprofitgenerator.net, is a great example of that."
