Cait Stanley and JagCashFlowSeminar.com announce a new online presentation which offers home business owners essential tools to overcome the traditional 95% odds of failure.

PR9.NET November 29, 2007 - St. Petersburg, FL – JagCashFlowSeminar.com and the founders of Mentors on a Mission showcase their latest Cash Flow Seminar streaming media production in response to the staggering 95% failure rate in the home business industry.

Traditionally, home business owners have been taught the duplication model, a prime contributor to the grim statistics. Cash Flow Seminar reveals, in detail, the corporate business model and offers home business owners the opportunity, for the first time in the history of the industry, to delegate and have professionals follow through on their sales process.

The key to any home business industry is to have enough qualified and targeted leads, a short and detailed information process, and the ability to have professional people close sales on a daily basis. The new seminar from Jag Cash Flow Seminar offers home business owners essential tools to overcome the traditional 95% odds of failure. Jag Cash Flow Seminar brings the Fortune 500 concept of delegation to an industry that typically treats home business as a hobby.

The new Cash Flow Seminar recently launched by Jag Marketing Systems, featured on JagCashFlowSeminar.com, was created by CEO and multi-millionaire entrepreneur Al Turnquist. He has used his 25 years of experience as a seasoned sales trainer and professional in the industry to share his expertise internationally with the home business community. According to Mr. Turnquist, "We are actually changing how home business will be done forever."

The Cash Flow Seminar features profiles and testimonials of successful CEOs such as Cait Stanley of Jag10k.com to talk about how effective this business model has been to increase revenue streams and putting more cash in their pocket on a monthly basis. Cait Stanley of Jag10k.com is just one of half a dozen six-figure income earners whose testimonials are featured in this new seminar.

Cait Stanley says, "Jag Cash Flow Seminar is not the familiar online presentation with 3 or 4 minutes of flash and hype: caviar dreams and broken promises. Cash Flow Seminar, nearly 30 minutes in length, is a complete presentation that reveals successful building blocks, the foundation for becoming a CEO within the home business industry. Cash Flow Seminar gives instructions for creating multiple income streams, utilizing the process of delegation versus duplication, and becoming an expert in one's industry -- as opposed to acting as janitor, chief cook, bottle-washer, and CEO all at the same time. Those looking to find an overnight get-rich-quick system will not find it in the Cash Flow Seminar. Those realists who intend to create substantial residual income over the next several years will benefit this seminar. "
