VoIPWarehouse allows online users to post their used VoIP equipment for sale, to post their excess hardware for bidding, and to search for the cheapest PBX equipment for their small businesses and large-scale enterprise.

PR9.NET December 11, 2007 - Germantown, MD – As part of the unrelenting service to all loyal VoIPWarehouse buyers and users, your online source of open source telephony equipment launches an online auction site available for all new online users as well as existing customers. All registered users can fully access VoIPWarehouse auction site to purchase or sell their brand new as well as used Asterisk compatible cards, VoIP Gateways, Analog Telephone Adapters, IP Phones, and many more.

VoIPWarehouse creates a room for cheaper alternatives as it allows registered users to bid for the lowest unique price on available VoIP and telephony equipment. As for used and refurbished hardware, online users can transact with others with their sold products posted on the site. Registered users can always opt to purchase the freshest VoIP and open source telephony equipment through VoIPWarehouse's online store.

VoIPWarehouse marketing manager Justin Cassidy said that "Not every end user wants a pricey VoIP hardware. We can act as a medium for inter-user transaction."
