Allbase Suite enables companies to manage accounting, CRM, inventory, marketing, and scheduling in one online system.

PR9.NET December 12, 2007 - BARRINGTON, IL - Allbase, Inc., a leading innovator in online business solutions, is proud to announce a web-based Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system designed for small and medium businesses.

The Allbase Suite allows business owners to manage all aspects of their operations in one system: accounting, CRM, inventory, marketing, scheduling, and more.

"Powerful business management solutions are no longer exclusive to large corporations", says Bert Johnson, president. "The Allbase Suite combines the features of traditional ERP with the affordability and ease-of-use of online software. Now even the smallest business can compete using the same tools as industry giants."

The Allbase Suite runs securely over any Internet connection and is available 24 hours a day. The software is upgraded on a regular basis, providing new features and improvements at no additional cost.

In addition to employee access, the Allbase Suite can enable clients to place orders, view appointments, and make service requests. The system further integrates with vendor databases, allowing employees to view real-time product pricing and availability information.

While competing packages often cost hundreds of thousands of dollars or more, the Allbase Suite is available starting at $3000. The "Software-as-a-Service" (SaaS) model means that there is no hardware to buy, no software to maintain, and backups are handled automatically.

Hands-on training and full support are available by phone, email, and appointment. A free 30-day evaluation of the Allbase Suite is available through the www.allbase.com website.
