AngleBuster partners with Australian Original Tools to provide new unique tool solutions for do it yourself (DIY) home improvement projects everywhere.

PR9.NET December 25, 2007 - Las Vegas, NV - When Marvin, the Utah Inventor of AngleBuster, was at Surfaces last year and saw the Original Tool company from Australia, he knew they were a perfect match for AngleBuster. Marvin met Craig and Ray of Original Tool in between managing his own booth at Surfaces. They got together to form a partnership.

Marvin states, "The Original Tool products, UltraSpreader and the Pro Kit are the perfect companion for AngleBuster." Marvin reasons include the ease of using the UltraSpreader and AngleBuster.

"The UltraSpreader product distributes the adhesive to the work surfaces like never before," state Craig and Ray, "it offers the following benefits over current methods and tools used:

- 100% Surface Coverage of Adhesive
- Spreads Adhesive to manufacturer's specifications.
- Spreads Adhesive to meet and exceed Building specifications
- Compensates for Uneven Surfaces, Varying Tile Thicknesses
- Installer Work Standing Up
- Stay "Off your Knees"
- Saves Time and Money
- Easy clean up"

Marvin describes AngleBuster in this way:

AngleBuster allows measuring an angle, holding the angle and copying the angle with one tool with a built in reference holding point so you get precise identical copies every time. AngleBuster has been used in tile, ceramic, slate, carpet, Sheetrock, framing, anywhere where angles are measured and cut.

"AngleBuster and UltraSpreader are great matches for flooring tile installation," states Marvin, "These tools make flooring jobs something that anyone can do. In fact a secretary from a hardware store watched our videos and having never laid tile before still did a great job. It shocked the pros at the shop."

DIY Home Improvement Buffs now have an easy unique solution to their flooring installation projects because of the partnership framed by Marvin, the Utah inventor of the AngleBuster and the Australian owners of Original Tool the manufacturers of the unique adhesive spreader they call the UltraSpreader.

AngleBuster.com has been in business since 2004. The AngleBuster has been in development since then.
