The latest video features the Soulseekers Team investigating Brunswick House, an 18th Century house located in Vauxhall, Central London. Soulseekers are filming their fourth mobisode at the end of January at one of the United Kingdom's most haunted locations. The team take a rational and logical, but open-minded approach to their investigations. They state, "none of us really know the truth yet, beyond our own convictions. We can only speculate until we have enough hard evidence."

The group plans on distributing their content to mobile media devices and ultimately, being "picked-up" for a television series.
