Dan Lenard discusses the lineage of audio recording technology and preps students on how to pick the best digital recording software to meet their needs on the Voice Over Experts Podcast at Voices.com.

PR9.NET January 23, 2008 - Toronto, Canada – Dan Lenard, known to many in the voice acting community as Master VO, is featured this week on the Voice Over Experts Podcast, the most downloaded and subscribed to educational podcast for aspiring and professional voice actors. Dan Lenard is a business consultant in the "do-it-yourself" field of constructing practical audio home recording studios and teaches his students basic as well as advanced audio recording techniques used for mastering polished voice over recordings.

In Dan Lenard's most recent lecture "Recording Software for the Voice Actor : What's Best For You?", listeners receive some historical perspective on how recording has evolved from the old days of splicing tape in radio stations to modern day state-of-the-art digital techniques. The listener also learns more about how to decide which software program for audio recording and digital editing is right for them.

As a contributor to the Voice Over Experts Podcast, Dan Lenard will be lecturing on a regular basis, helping people to understand, develop and succeed in the business of voice acting and building their home recording studio. Since the lectures are available in the form of podcasts, the lessons are hosted online and can be subscribed to through the Apple iTunes Directory, to be enjoyed at any time.

The Voice Over Experts Podcast can be found and subscribed to for free in the iTunes Podcast Directory and online at the Voices.com Podcast Center.
