Three-night getaway feeds the body, mind, soul, stomach and hunger for adventure.

PR9.NET January 24, 2008 - COSTALEGRE, Mexico – Indulging the senses is a theme for guests staying at El Careyes Beach Resort along Mexico's Costalegre this Valentine's Day.

The exclusive 48-room hotel is pulling out all stops to ensure romance is alive and well for couples seeking to reconnect in this "barefoot luxury" resort, which is modeled after a brightly colored Mediterranean village in a quiet beach cove along Mexico's Pacific Coast roughly halfway between Puerto Vallarta and Manzanillo. El Careyes shares the same latitude as the Hawaiian islands, and is surrounded by lush tropical jungle, soaring native palm trees, and spectacular craggy coastline cut with intriguing rocky inlets filled with pristine beaches. The hotel's brightly painted terracotta hues that are typical of the elegant Costa Careyes blend in seamlessly with the vibrant natural surroundings of ocean, verdant greenery and azure skies.

The three-night "Romantic Rendezvous" package starts from $1,867 US (taxes and tips included) and is valid from Feb. 1-17, 2008. The package features two 30 min. massages, a three hour picnic at the nearby bird estuary on Isla Cocinas, American breakfast each morning, and a candlelit private dinner for two with wine served anywhere in the resort – an intimate in-suite setting, poolside overlooking the beach and sunset, tucked amid the tropical gardens, or beside the gentle waves which lap the beach. A personal chef and waiter provide attentive yet discrete service, and scores of twinkling candles complete the picture perfect romantic ambiance.

Couples chose from a menu of four ultra-gourmet meals prepared at La Lantara Restaurant, featuring signature dishes such as grilled rock lobster, fish fillet stuffed with sweet bell pepper and shrimp accompanied by mussel risotto, or sautéed jumbo prawns in a white wine reduction.

But the romantic mood need not end at dinner. Guests are invited to take home an exclusive Careyes amenities gift set including 100 percent all-natural shampoo, conditioner, bath gel and massage oils from the spa, presented in beautiful earthenware pots arranged in a hand-woven basket.

This attention to detail starts the minute guests set foot inside the open air lobby, with personalized service that is a hallmark of El Careyes: a non-alcoholic welcome beverage greets them upon check in, and guests are made to feel at home with access to free internet in the business center, use of tennis courts, cinema, library and the sauna and steam room at the spa.
