From Sunnyvale, California - At Mitamins, a new supplement formula from Dr. Balch, which is targeted at Emphysema has been launched. This natural emphysema formula is focused on lung system recovery and repair. Botanicals such as Ginkgo Biloba, used to help with peripheral circulation, are included alongside powerful immunity-enhancing components such as Astragalus. Smoking- and stress-related nutritional deficiencies are addressed with a variety of essentials.

PR9.NET February 01, 2008 - Sunnyvale, California - With Emphysema ,destruction of the walls between alveoli leads to permanent damage of the alveoli. The destruction of the alveolar walls reduces the elasticity of the lung overall. N-Acetyl L-Cysteine and L-Glutamine help the body to synthesize glutathione, an important antioxidant that has been proven to support lung health. Ginkgo Biloba can improve lung circulation.

Infections occur more frequently in emphysema patients. Grape Seed and Green Tea provide antioxidant and general health-enhancing support. Astragalus is a traditional stimulant for boosting the body's immunity. N-Acetyl L-Cysteine and L-Glutamine are included in this natural treatment formula for Emphysema because they help the body synthesize glutathione, an important antioxidant that has been proven to support lung health.

Long-term use of N-acetyl L-Cysteine may increase urinary excretion of zinc. Therefore, additional Zinc supplementation is recommended. Zinc is an essential mineral that is involved in antioxidant protection against free radicals, and can help to boost immunity. Grape Seed and Green Tea are included as they provide antioxidant support and have many general health-enhancing properties. Ginkgo Biloba helps to maintain peripheral circulation in the lung. Astragalus is traditionally used as a tonic and is well-known as an immune stimulant.
