

Olympic Hopeful? BrainHarmony Biofeedback Center Offers a High Tech Competitive Edge

Plasmainteractive, February 01, 2008

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/health/mental/7242february.html>

BrainHarmony, Inc is looking for a few good men (and women). The local company, which specializes in Peak Performance and Brain Fitness Training, is seeking two future Olympians who are interested in an extraordinary competitive edge as they prepare for competition this summer.

PR9.NET February 01, 2008 - Newport Beach, Ca – BrainHarmony, Inc (<http://www.mybrainharmony.com/>) is looking for a few good men (and women). The local company, which specializes in Peak Performance and Brain Fitness Training, is seeking two future Olympians who are interested in an extraordinary competitive edge as they prepare for competition this summer.

The company has developed a training process that combines cutting edge visualization techniques with state of the art brain training technology, allowing significant, measurable improvements in physical and mental performance. They believe this high tech training approach can help more American athletes bring home medals in the upcoming Summer Games, and they're willing to put their money where their mouth is .

The company is so confident, in fact, that they're willing to offer scholarships to two Beijing bound athletes for up to 20 training sessions each (a $4000 value). The training includes a comprehensive Brain State Assessment and advanced visualization and brain training using EEG Biofeedback technology (also known as Neurofeedback). The combination of time-tested techniques and cutting edge technology make the BrainHarmony process a high tech, drug free way to gain a significant mental and emotional edge in the most competitive of environments

Athletes and Coaches who wish to apply for these scholarships can write to BrainHarmony, Inc, 4000 Birch St. Suite 201A, Newport Beach, Ca 92618, or contact Jason Gomez at jgomez@mybrainharmony.com. Applications will be reviewed individually, and candidates will be selected on the basis of financial need, service to their community, and a demonstrated commitment to excellence. Results will be announced by March 1 st, 2008.

Olympians and Olympic hopefuls not selected for the scholarships may be eligible for financial aid or discounted rates. Inquiries regarding financial aid and discounted rates can be sent to the same address by mail or directed to info@mybrainharmony.com for more immediate review.

###

About BrainHarmony, Inc

BrainHarmony is a state-of-the-art Biofeedback Training Center in Orange County, California engaged in brain state training by neurofeedback therapy. We cater: Tustin, Tustin Ranch, Laguna Woods, Lake Forest, Laguna Hills, Laguna Nigue

About Plasmainteractive