Company distributes multifunction GPS tracking with Millennium Plus and develops its online profile.

PR9.NET March 06, 2008 - Gary, IN - Alexander Tracking Systems launched a new phase in its sale and distribution of the GPS tracking systems.

Alexander Tracking Systems is an authorized seller of Horizon Technologies' Millennium Plus (M PLUS) multifunction GPS tracking and remote management system. Its compact design allows for covert installation, so it can transmit vehicle data even after a theft. M-PLUS is capable of tracking vehicles and correlating them with photographic maps across 98% of the US and most of Canada and Mexico. The system also features remote starter interrupt, door locks and online vehicle monitoring tools.

One of the chief assets of the Millennium Plus system is its reach and connectivity, Alexander Tracking Systems aims to emulate this in its business operations. To that end, the company has optimized its web presence at <http://www.alexandertrackingsystems.com> for easy, customer-friendly access. Consultants at GILL Media developed a plan to help Alexander Tracking Systems get its message across that was consistent with the desire to showcase the M-PLUS system – a product whose innovations merit promotion, accord to Alexander Tracking Systems COO James Alexander.

"Now's the perfect time to visit us," said Mr. Alexander. "We're better positioned to inform customers about M-PLUS than ever before. It's a fantastic GPS tracking product that's driven by its features – not empty hype."
