Students from all over the world are utilizing Almeda University's unique guidance to achieve an online college degree. Many cite the online degree guide as an integral part of path to a more successful future.

PR9.NET March 26, 2008 - Boise, ID – With a growing number of websites offering online college degrees, students seeking an online education are faced with a number of challenges in the selection process. For the staff of Almeda University, this problem presents a unique opportunity to better serve its students.

"We have been providing college degrees online for more than 10 years and have served over 26,000 online students in more than 7,000 cities worldwide," says Almeda University spokesperson Richard Franklin. "This experience makes us the ideal school to lead students through the process of achieving a university degree online. We have an in-depth understanding of what students need to come to a thoughtful decision concerning not only which school will serve them best, but also the online degree program that will have the most impact on their careers and lives and the steps required to achieve that online degree."

Students from around the globe seem to concur with Franklin's sentiments about Almeda University's online degree guides. "I always sent the same questionnaire and with so many sites I never heard back from them. The staff at Almeda University was very prompt, and answered all my online degree questions," says J.M.G, a student from Nevada. "I checked out their new web site to learn about what further schooling and qualifications I would require to finish my online degree and was absolutely amazed with the quality of educators, and the simple process I had to go through to achieve my online learning goals."

For students like J.M.G., getting a University degree online means greater job satisfaction, the ability to move up the career ladder and an increased salary. The assistance provided by those at Almeda University ensures that the guidance they provide for their online degree programs makes big changes in the lives of students. "We like to think of it as a ripple effect," says Richard Franklin, "our online degrees are like a stone dropped in a pool of water. The positive affects of our online degree programs ripple out to all aspects of our students' lives. Of that we are very proud."

Almeda University is an online institute that has been serving the international community since its inception in 1997. Since that time, Almeda has evolved to educate an expanding population through cutting edge curriculum design based on students' needs and professional service.
