OnlineXsite.com, LLC launches a new personal connection website that allows members to connect in three different ways, offering three websites in one. The "soulful" category is for those seeking love and long-term romance. Members looking to connect for fun with no strings attached can explore the "playful" category. And those who are simply looking for new friendships will enjoy making "social" connections.

PR9.NET April 10, 2008 - Hamilton, Virginia - OnlineXsite.com, LLC recently launched a personal connection website that will take internet dating to an advanced level. Members of <http://www.OnlineXsite.com> can connect in three different ways: soulful -- for love and long-term romance; playful -- for fun with no strings attached; and social -- for friendship and good times. The option for users to seek connection on multiple levels within a single website makes OnlineXsite.com an exceptional tool for making new friends and discovering new possibilities in relationships. The special spring promotion currently highlighted on the home page of the site offers new members tremendous value.

Most people have a limited amount of time available to look for relationships. If a person has relocated to a new area, it is especially challenging to find a community. Internet dating website memberships can add up to a costly investment, and many of these sites focus on a single type of connection.

OnlineXsite.com, LLC offers a tremendous value of multi-use functioning within a single website. For less than the cost of a movie ticket, members can enjoy a full month membership of complete access to explore connection possibilities in soulful, playful and social categories. The quick and advanced search options, email and online chat tools make screening other members easy.

Creating a profile is a simple, and user-friendly process. When a member creates a profile, a descriptive paragraph is automatically generated based on that person's personality and preferences. This fully editable description is showcased for that specific profile when the member has approved it. If a member wishes to create an additional profile, common information is carried over, so no one wastes time answering the same questions again.

Additionally, members can easily choose whether they want each profile to be active or inactive. Only active profiles show up in searches. Therefore, if a member has a "soulful" profile and then connects with a partner in a committed relationship, that member can inactivate their "soulful" profile and still enjoy the social benefits of the other two connection categories.

To celebrate the launch of the website, new members can take advantage of the special spring promotion. Details of this bargain are showcased on the home page of <http://www.OnlineXsite.com> as well as member registration.
