

LinkExpats.com, the social networking website for expatriates, announces new features to its website

LinkExpats.com, May 16, 2008

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/comp/internet/8131may.html>

Linkexpats.com updates its forums feature, adds a new FAQs page, and adds an aggregated news page for expatriates in the world.

PR9.NET May 16, 2008 - Washington, DC – LinkExpats.com announces it has expanded its forums feature and added the aggregated news capability to members.

The new forums feature will allow members to create a topic and ask pertinent questions concerning where they will be living. For example: An American who lives in Dubai can ask a question in the forum for Americans who live in Singapore, or a question for Australians who live in France. The American can also post a question for All French living abroad, etc.

A new Frequently Asked pages has been added to answer most questions asked by linkexpats members about the website services. The page is available at <http://www.linkexpats.com/faqs.aspx>

LinkExpats.com also added the aggregated news service. Expatriates will see new about their home country through an RSS feed reader. Rali Kettani, LinkExpats' founder believes "the news feature will definitely make members more interested in the services, as it will make them less home sick." As always, registration to LinkExpats is free and will always be. This page is available after users have successfully logged in.

For additional information on the website new features, please visit <http://www.linkexpats.com>

###

About LinkExpats.com

Linkexpats.com is a social networking website for expatriates. It offers forums, ads, events, and news about a specific country for expatriates.

Website: <http://www.linkexpats.com>

PR9.NET - Your Free Press Release Service