America's first online commercial printing company honored for outstanding customer service.

PR9.NET June 25, 2008 - Livingston, MT – PrintingForLess.com, www.printingforless.com, today announced that their CEO, Andrew Field, is a Ernst & Young Entrepreneur Of The Year® 2008 Award finalist in the Pacific Northwest Region. Also, the PrintingForLess.com Customer Advocate Department is an American Business Awards(SM) finalist in the Best Customer Service Department category.

"I'm honored to be a finalist for the Ernst & Young Award this year and am very proud of our customer service team for being a finalist in the Stevie Awards," says Field. "These nominations recognize how our investments in technology, training and talent have helped us to build a great company that contributes to the community and helps other entrepreneurs succeed."

The Ernst & Young awards program was designed to recognize outstanding entrepreneurs on a regional, national and global level who are building and leading dynamic, growing businesses. Awards are given to entrepreneurs who have demonstrated excellence and extraordinary success in such areas as innovation, financial performance, and personal commitment to their businesses and communities.

Hailed as "the business world's own Oscars," the American Business Awards are the only national, all-encompassing awards program honoring great performances in business. Nicknamed the "Stevie" for the Greek word "crowned," the elegant Stevie trophy was designed by the same company that makes the Oscar and the Emmy.
