PR9.NET July 02, 2008 - London, United Kingdom - Testhouse, a Software Testing Consultancy has won the "Business of the Year" award for 2008 from the prestigious Docklands Business Club and The London Chamber of Commerce. The event held at the historic Painted Hall in Greenwich, London was sponsored by Barclays Bank. Testhouse won amidst stiff competition from large companies including Telecity Group. Notable winners on the night were Richard Gooding Chief Executive of London City Airport who won the Business Person of the Year and London Marriott for Customer Focus in Business Award.

The sustained profitable growth of the business and references from clients and partners like HP, Microsoft, CSC and Premier Farnell were notable influences in the Judges decision. The corporate social responsibility of Testhouse in supporting the local community and our staff personal development also had a significant impact on this decision. It proved that Testhouse was an all round business and therefore had a long term prosperous and successful future.

Testhouse focuses on Testing and Risk Mitigation of IT systems for medium to large companies and public sector bodies; our mutually beneficial partnership with our software tool vendors namely HP and Microsoft offer a great solution for our joint customer base. This relationship ensures the customers' investment in our partners software solutions are supported by Testhouse services to achieve maximum return on investment.
