Voices.com is pleased to support The Chicago Institute for Voice Care's second annual Midwest Voice Conference to be held in Chicago, IL on August 9, 2008.

PR9.NET July 18, 2008 - Toronto, Canada - For those who use their voice to earn a living, there is nothing more important and rewarding than taking proper care of their voice, with prevention being second to none when it comes to preserving the vocal apparatus. In a few short weeks, an informative and practical conference geared toward voice professionals called the Midwest Voice Conference will held in Chicago, IL for the second year running.

One of the only educational experiences available over the summer months pertaining directly to the use and care of the human voice, the Midwest Voice Conference is of special interest to voice actors, actors, singers, comedians, teachers, radio personalities, broadcasters, lawyers, public speakers and anyone who uses their voice on a regular basis to communicate vital messages to other people.

Conference delegates will learn about the mechanics of their voice, how it relates to other aspects of their work and instruction on making the most effective use of their instrument with an emphasis on vocal health.

Participants will hear world renowned faculty explain:

๏ How the Voice Works ๏ Diagnosis of Voice Disorders ๏ Tools to Protect Your Voice ๏ Common Medical Conditions Affecting the Voice - Reflux Disease/ GERD - Allergies & Sinus Disease - Stroke, Parkinson's Disease, ALS & Spasmodic Dysphonia - Obesity ๏ Hands-on Workshops and Demonstrations

Speakers include:

๏ H. Steven Sims, MD ๏ Stephanie Joe, MD ๏ Carlos Galvani, MD ๏ Jay Goldstein, MD ๏ Karen Wicklund, DM, MHS, CF-SLP ๏ Arlene Barr, MD ๏ Lyndia Johnson ๏ Randy Buescher

Teachers who participate will receive 7 CPDU's for attending this world-class event.
