Discount Theatre Tickets.org announces a new website design so visitors can easily find the cheapest theatre tickets to thousands of shows.

PR9.NET November 21, 2010 - Discount Theatre Tickets.org visitors will be pleasantly surprised the next time they visit <http://www.discounttheatretickets.org>. The new design sports many new features that will help visitors find the absolutely cheapest prices and best discounts on theatre tickets. The new site is broken down into four main sections. The sections are Chicago Theatre Tickets, New York Theatre Tickets, London Theatre Tickets, and Coupon Codes. The developers state that most people look for theatre tickets based on location so it only makes sense to have the navigation of the website broken down so visitors can browse tickets by location.

When a visitor browses to a specific location they see a list of the most popular shows and upon clicking they are taken to a page of results where visitors can sort by price to help find the cheapest prices. Another interesting new function added to the website is that it will be pulling data feeds from several sources around the web so when visitors look for a particular ticket they are seeing the lowest prices from around the web. Visitors can also check out the coupon code section of the website to save additional money on tickets. The developer's state that the new website design and functionality is a big step for the website and they will continue to develop the site and add new features as soon as possible based on customer demand and functionality.
